It is with great pleasure we welcome all athletes, team staff, officials, volunteers and supporters to the Scottish National Short Course Open Swimming Championships here at the Royal Commonwealth Pool in Edinburgh.

In this splendid facility we look forward to providing excellent competition opportunities for these young athletes as they strive to achieve their goals and feel very privileged to be able to offer our support and encouragement to all the competitors and ultimately to share their dreams and ambitions.

We envisage this will make for some exciting and highly competitive swimming over the next 3 days and we hope you will join with us to celebrate their success.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all the swimming volunteers who so generously give up their free time to support our Meet. This includes the club officials, coaches and support staff who accompany athletes at meets throughout the Country and further afield.

We also owe our thanks to the Organising Committee of the event. Once again a tremendous amount of hard work has gone on behind the scenes to make this happen.

We are extremely appreciative to the staff at the Royal Commonwealth Pool and give thanks to them for their continued support before and during the Meet.

We wish all the swimmers and their coaches the very best of luck at these Championships and hope that as a spectator you have an enjoyable time here at the Scottish National Short Course Swimming Championships.

May we take this opportunity on behalf of all at Scottish Swimming to wish you all a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year in 2018.

A History....

The 'Commie Pool' is one of Scotland's most celebrated sports venues and holds a place deep in the heart of many divers, swimmers and Edinburgh citizens.

Construction began 40 years ago as Edinburgh prepared to host the Commonwealth Games, the first time a Scottish city would host the event. It was opened three years later in time for the Games in 1970 and was immediately thrust into the national spotlight when home-grown swimmer David Wilkie won a bronze in the 200m breaststroke category.

Sir Herbert Archbold Brechin was the man with the plan to bring the Friendly Games to Edinburgh and a top class, stylish and memorable aquatics venue was at the forefront of the idea. Years on, the building has won numerous awards including being selected by the international conservation organisation DoCoMoMo as one of 60 key Scottish monuments of the post-war period.

The RCP was also nominated in 2002 by the Architecture Heritage Society of Scotland as one of the most significant modern contributions to Scottish heritage. These sentiments were echoed in Prospect 100 best modern Scottish buildings, published in 2005.

The famous A-listed building was closed in 2009 for a multi-million pound refurbishment. Around £40million was injected in to the facility for new 25m (82 ft) diving and teaching pools as well as improvements to the café, changing rooms, reception, and the dive gym.

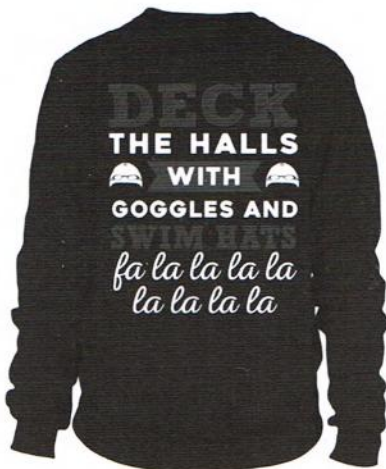

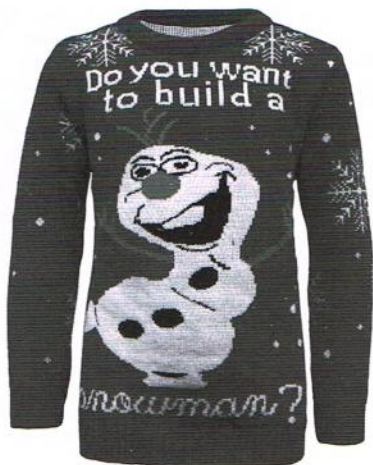

During the 2014 Commonwealth Games, the RCP hosted the Diving and the venue is also scheduled to host the same event at next year's inaugural multi-sport European Championships.
